Background on Schedullnspec:

"Schedullnspec was put in motion roughly a year ago when I was having difficulties keeping up with my inspection leads and needed help with appointment scheduling," says Michael Heath, President and CEO of Mesa Summit Corporation whose company created Schedullnspec, "I was aware of other schedulers in the marketplace, but at the time the expense was not something I could budget as I was building the business. Therefore, I set out to create a simple scheduler for my clients. The response to the appointment scheduler was excellent and it got the attention of a handful of inspectors wanting their own version of the scheduler too. Fueled by this interest, we employed a creative staff to develop and create an appointment scheduler viable and robust enough to cover the basics. Nothing extremely fancy but functional and user-friendly with the goal of keeping the cost down for the inspector. There are other products like SchedulInspec available on the web that cater to the home inspection profession, but we knew that making a cost-effective alternative available to all in the marketplace would be beneficial to the public."
