Today sees the launch of Schedullnspec Online Appointment Scheduler.

December 30, 2005 -- Today sees the launch of Schedullnspec (<http://www.schedullnspec.com>), the online appointment scheduling service, reaching real estate inspectors, appraisers and agents alike.

Schedullnspec Online Appointment Scheduler (<http://www.schedullnspec.com>) is the user-friendly online tool, assisting the busy professional in the field of real estate inspection, real estate appraisal and real estate sales. Schedullnspec was co-developed and created by a practicing real estate inspector for the purpose of better managing the scheduling of inspections and to curb the customer's dependence on scheduling appointments over the telephone.

"The need to develop a cost-effective scheduler for my personal real estate inspection business grew into a feature-rich product from interest and support by other inspectors and real estate agents. The seed was then planted to make Schedullnspec a viable online appointment scheduling tool for other real estate professionals," says Michael Heath, President and Chief Executive Officer of Mesa Summit Corporation, whose company developed Schedullnspec.

"Schedullnspec embodies the ever-changing face of the real estate professional," says Heath. "By this I mean the importance to evolve and develop with the real estate industry, is key to business growth and survival. We believe Schedullnspec will be the preeminent online appointment scheduling tool to support and assist the busy real estate professional. "
